

The Consortium for Ecological Law's leadership is participating in the 2025 IUCN Congress as members of Pace University – Elisabeth Haub School of Law's GCELS

Demonstrating Leadership in Global Environmental Governance

The Consortium for Ecological Law's leadership is honored to participate in the International Union for the Conservation of Nature's 2025 World Conservation Congress as members of the Pace Global Center for Environmental Legal Studies (GCELS). The Consortium's leadership has been contributing to the work of IUCN, its Congress, Commissions and Secretariat for decades.

Participating online in the 2025 IUCN World Conservation Congress are Professor Nicholas A. Robinson (President of the Consortium and University Professor on the Environment at the Elisabeth Haub School of Law, Pace University); Professor Richard L. Ottinger (Vice President of the Consortium and Dean Emeritus at the Elisabeth Haub School of Law, Pace University); and Professor Victor M. Tafur (Executive Director of the Consortium and Director of the UN Environmental Diplomacy Practicum at the Elisabeth Haub School of Law, Pace University).

Representing the GCELS and Consortium of Ecological Law in-person at the Congress in Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates, is Professor Shakeel Kazmi (Member of the Board of Directors and Treasurer of the Consortium and Adjunct Professor at the Elisabeth Haub School of Law, Pace University, teaching Renewable Energy Law).

For more information on Professors Robinson, Ottinger, Kazmi and Tafur please see tap "About – Board of Directors".

The Consortium for Ecological Law Leadership is proud to contribute to the important forum, events and dialogues taking place at the Congress and to advance environmental legal education, diplomacy, and youth engagement in global environmental governance.
